

Bolchazy-Carducci Publishers, Inc.

A better future through the lessons of the past

Bolchazy-Carducci Publishers is looking for an editor to work with BCP staff and editors in the creation and promotion of new textbooks with a focus on pedagogy and content. The successful candidate will have a PhD in classics or an MA in classics and teaching experience at the secondary and/or university level.

We would prefer an energetic, computer-literate person with a strong interest in the publishing field, a willingness to relocate (NW Chicago suburb), and a public relations orientation. Editing experience is not necessary. We will provide training. Some travel to conferences is a part of the job expectations.

This editor would be a part of a team that will have considerable influence on the development of classical textbooks and scholarship.

If you join BCP in this editorial position, we are confident you will find self-fulfillment if you have:

- Empathy/sympathy with the goals of teaching classics
- Interest in networking with classicists
- An orientation to seek collaboration with other classicists
- Career orientation
- Commitment to pedagogy
- Dedication to the promotion of classics and the humanities in general

Please contact Dr. Bridget Dean and send your resume with a cover letter if you are interested. Please indicate if you will be attending CAMWS. We will be scheduling some interviews at CAMWS and others by teleconference.

Bolchazy-Carducci Publishers, Inc. (BCP) is an equal opportunity employer. BCP is committed to equal opportunity for every employee and potential employee without regard to race, color, religion, gender, marital status, sexual orientation, age, national origin, or veteran status.