

Recently Bolchazy-Carducci announced the arrival of Ubi Fera Sunt, Rick LaFleur's Latin translation of Maurice Sendak's beloved Where the Wild Things Are. The book, with its limited vocabulary, makes a great addition to Latin classrooms of any level. To help make it an effective resource in the classroom, we have provided links to several useful quizzes that will make it fun and easy for students to master the vocabulary. Quizzes are located in the "Digital Content" section of Ubi Fera Sunt on our web page.

Kahoot functions as an in-class quiz. The teacher cues up the quiz from a computer, tablet, or mobile device by clicking the provided Kahoot link and then clicking "Play." This brings the teacher to an "Options" screen. Here, the teacher can choose whether to display the Game PIN, which students will use to enter and, if need be, reenter the quiz. Kahoot gives the option to show the instructions throughout the quiz; the teacher can randomize the order of questions and answers; music can play during the quiz; advanced options allow the teacher to select whether to automatically move through questions, require players to rejoin after each Kahoot, or display their Wi-Fi details.

Once the teacher has chosen the preferences, the next step is to click "Launch," which will bring up the game's PIN screen. At this point, students will enter the PIN displayed on this screen at kahoot.it and click "Enter." This will bring the students to a screen where they are prompted to enter a nickname. (Note: Kahoot does have a censorship function that allows the teacher to remove inappropriate names with just one click.)

Once all the students have joined, the teacher will click "Start" and the quiz will begin! Students have ten seconds to click on the shape corresponding to the correct answer displayed on the teacher's screen. The round ends after ten seconds or when the last person answers, whichever occurs first. Using a bar graph, Kahoot then displays which answer was chosen the most by students.

If the teacher opted not to have the quiz move automatically, clicking "Next" will move to the "Leading Scorers" screen. Students earn points by answering the question the fastest and correctly, adding a competitive twist to the quiz. The teacher will click "Next" again to move onto the next question (or Kahoot will move automatically if the option was selected). Once the quiz has ended, the top scorer will be displayed, and then students will have an opportunity to rate the quiz and share their scores. (Note: if the teacher has selected to automatically move through the quiz, the quiz will start over after these screens.)
