

Recently Bolchazy-Carducci announced the arrival of Ubi Fera Sunt, Rick LaFleur's Latin translation of Maurice Sendak's beloved Where the Wild Things Are. The book, with its limited vocabulary, makes a great addition to Latin classrooms of any level. To help make it an effective resource in the classroom, we have provided links to several useful quizzes that will make it fun and easy for students to master the vocabulary. Quizzes are located in the "Digital Content" section of Ubi Fera Sunt on our web page.

Quia functions as a quiz that students can use at home or in class. Students using Quia quizzes click on the quiz link, which prompts them to enter their name. Whether the students enter a name or not, they then click "Start Now." This brings them to the Fill-In quiz where they fill in the English or Latin translations and submit their answers. On another screen, students are shown a score summary. This reveals the correct and incorrect answers and all the acceptable answers. The students then have the opportunity to try again or finish it.
