7th edition 1984–1985 Marquis Who's Who, Inc. [p. 270]

DOMARUS has published numerous works on Franconian and German history, in particular the baroque age. In 1950, he began his first publications on contemporary history describing the Allies' strategic air raids on major German cities.

While still a young man, Dr. Domarus was already an expert on British history, also concentrating on Napoleon and William II.

When in 1932, Hitler became the most important political figure in Germany, Dr. Domarus began to collect his public statements, speeches, proclamations, interviews, and letters, being conscious of their eventual documentary value. Friends at home and abroad persuaded him to make comments on this unique collection and publish it in its entirety.

This publication's most decisive feature is to be found in the clear, concise and insightful comments of the author. A sample of his commentary follows:

Behind the scenes Hitler was busily preparing for his conquest of the East. On November 5, 1937, Hitler astounded his generals by revealing to them his intention of launching attacks upon Czecho-Slovakia and Austria in the near future. To Hitler's great displeasure, Blomberg and Fritsch did not in the least rejoice at such prospects.

Instead, they ventured to voice misgivings over the Führer's military analysis of the situation and, in particular, they disputed his a priori assumption that the Western Powers would remain neutral and indifferent to a German move of such importance.

Hitler realized that, given their views on this topic, both Blomberg and Fritsch might become costly liabilities in the event of a war. Hence, he decided to rid himself of the two generals as soon as possible. This did not prove particularly difficult. Hitler succeeded in luring Blomberg into a marriage that provoked the Minister's downfall, and Fritsch was discredited on account of alleged homosexuality. On February 4, 1938, Hitler made official the removal of both military men from office. He himself took over the Reich Ministry of War and thereby secured for himself an unchallenged position as Supreme Commander (Oberster Be-fehlshaber) of the Wehrmacht.

Vol. II, pages 285–86

Domarus' early occupation with British history and Napoleon and William II resulted in a deeper understanding of the true power structures in the world.

According to the unanimous judgment of experts worldwide, Domarus' Hitler: Speeches and Proclamations 1932–1945: The Chronicle of a Dictatorship is the standard reference book on the Third Reich.

Domarus Chronology

“The life and career of the most complex, destructive, and central historic figure of the Twentieth Century - Adolph Hitler!”

1945 - Hitler's Death

1963 - The publication of the “indispensable” clue to what made Hitler tick to enable him to eliminate nearly 70,000,000 people – Hitler Reden 1932 bis 1945, Max Domarus, 4 volumes, in German

1990 – 2004 “First English translation of the German edition, ‘a staggering’ undertaking. As a result, English-speaking, scholars, students, and interested lay readers now have access to one of the most important historical sources documenting the public life of Adolf Hitler and the history of Nazi Germany.”

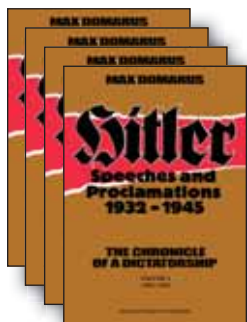

What made Hitler tick to enable him to organize one of the most cultured and educated people in the entire world to devastate all the nations from London to St Petersburg -- Hitler Speeches and Proclamations, 1932 - 1945: The Chronicle of a Dictatorship; 4 volumes (3,400 pages)

2007 - “To complete this enterprise in accessibility, Bolchazy-Carducci Publishers has now finished a one-volume English abridged edition of the complete four volume-set of their English translation.” What made Hitler tick as the self-declared messiah and the lion of the jungle to drive thousands of Europeans to kill 6,000,000 Jews and another 60,000 -64,000 millions of their neighbors throughout the Judeo-Christian twentieth century civilization.

Can we identify the likes of him in our midst? Will subsequent generations remember , so they themselves not become victims? The Essential Hitler: Speeches and Proclamations, 880 pages
